Ayvalık International Music Academy (AIMA)

was founded by renowned musicologist Prof. Filiz Ali. The Academy has organized 115 masterclasses, 7 workshops, 11 music festivals, numerous chamber music concerts, symposiums and lectures since 1998.

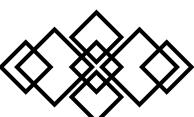

Reaching more than 1,300 gifted students to this day, AIMA plays a historic role in the field of classical music education in Turkey.

Over the years, AIMA has grown into a comprehensive institution; organising masterclasses in various disciplines, founding the AIMA Festival Orchestra and since 2013, running a music festival that brings together world-renowned artists with their aspiring counterparts in Ayvalık.

AIMA was incorporated into (AKSV) Ayvalık Foundation for Culture and Arts, a non-profit and non-governmental organization in 2011. Established with a modest budget and limited resources, AIMA has relied solely on volunteers and individual and corporate benefactors to sustain its activities.

A documentary commemorating AIMA's 20th anniversary, Two Hands for a Sound, is available online at <https://tinyurl.com/aima20yil>

A Getaway for Artists

AIMA Villa is located in Ayvalık, a seaside town on Turkey's northwestern Aegean coast. It is neighboured by the Greek island of Lesbos to the west, Mount Ida to the north, and the ancient city of Pergamon to the east. The town is well known for its neoclassical buildings, beaches, cafés, and tavernas, as well as its delicious cuisine consisting of seafood and olive oil dishes.

The villa is secluded from the hustle and bustle of the town, yet only a two-minute walk from the town center. The large terrace faces the distant Greek island of Lesbos, where guests can enjoy a beautiful sunset after a day of creativity.
